Open House Listing for Dietetics Programs (2022-2023)

Welcome to the 2022-2023 listing of Open Houses for dietetic internships (DI), coordinated graduate programs (CP), and Future Education Model/Graduate Program (FEM/GP) programs that choose to participate.

This list is compiled from information provided from program directors through the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics NDEP (Nutrition and Dietetics Educators and Preceptors) Council; other Open Houses might, in fact, be available.

Please note the following suggestions:

- 1) Read the webpage of a program before you visit, email, or otherwise ask questions. Any webpage links of which the list manager is aware are given below. Please also realize that in dealing with the COVID19 pandemic, many programs are offering virtual rather than in-person open houses. If you are not certain, please contact the specific program for clarification.
- 2) If requested by the program, remember to RSVP before trying to participate in an open house. The program director might want to contact you before you arrive with important information, such as parking and specific directions.
- 3) Unless otherwise stated, you should assume that times listed are in the time zone of the program.
- 4) Not all programs have formal open houses. But most encourage students to visit if possible. So contact the director of a program you are serious about even if that program is not on this list, or if you cannot make the formal open house listed. Perhaps special arrangements can be made. At the end of this table there is a section for programs that request students to make their own arrangements to visit (under the heading Open Dates).

*Programs are coded as follows:

DI = dietetic internship

CP = coordinated program

ISPP = Individualized Supervised Practice Pathway

Master = master's degree program linked to DI or CP

FEM = Future Education Model program (graduate level); also referred to as Graduate Programs
